The Society for the Care and Protection of Animals in Stephenville is furious the George Carden circus is coming to town this weekend. The society's president, Barbara O'Keefe, says had her group known the circus was booked it would have campaigned against the performance.

Protest planned for Saturday

O'Keefe says her group will protest outside Stephenville Gardens as the circus starts Saturday.

The town's fire department is sponsoring the show to raise money for children's Christmas toys. Fire Chief Wayne Rielly says considering this year's controversy, it's unlikely the department will bring the circus back again.

St. John's city council has refused permission for the circus to perform in the city, but other municipalities are not blocking show. There's more controversy over a circus tour of the province.
